reptiles

Reptiles are cold-blooded and covered in scales.

arthropods

Arthropods have segmented bodies, many legs and limbs. Some can fly, crawl and some can even swim.

mammals

Mammals drink milk as a baby and most have hair or fur on their body.

fish

Fish live in water and have fins, scales and gills so they can breathe underwater.

amphibians

Amphibians are born in water with gills. They develop lungs and legs so they can live on land and in water.

Sarnie-Saurus

Make Flo and Carl's tasty dinosaur sandwiches!

You will need:

Your favourite sandwich

Carrot

Salad

Tortilla chips

Ketchup

1

Cut your sandwich into small triangles and stand them up on the crust. Carefully break your tortilla chips into the size you want and poke them into the edge of the sandwiches.

ROARRRR!

Grab some colouring pens or pencils. Use the small picture to help you colour in Bunsen.

Stomp around and ROAR like a T. rex!

2

Ask an adult to chop off the pointy end of a carrot and slice it lengthways. Push it in to the sandwich for the head. Add a blob of ketchup for an eye. Sit the dinosaurs on a bed of salad.

Quarrk!

Some butterflies use their wings as camouflage to hide from their predators.

Many frogs can jump 20 times their own body length. That's like a human jumping 30 metres!

Butterflies taste with their feet!
